The National Universities Commission (NUC), along with other Implementing Agencies and the six benefitting Universities, under the Federal Government’s Sustainable Procurement Environmental and Social Standards Enhancement (SPESSE) Project, last Thursday, interacted with the World Bank Mission to discuss implementation progress, long term plans, expected results and fiduciary issues that were germane to the Project.

He recalled that, in August, 2021 a similar meeting was held, where Agencies and the six benefitting Universities, under the Federal Government’s Sustainable Procurement Environmental and Social Standards Enhancement (SPESSE) Project, last Thursday, interacted with the World Bank Mission to discuss implementation progress, long term plans, expected results and fiduciary issues that were germane to the Project.

In his remarks at the meeting, the Executive Secretary of NUC, Prof. Abubakar Adamu Rasheed, Mni, MFR, FNAL, said that the purpose was to discover the extent the Centres of Excellence had achieved the objectives set out in the project implementation framework.

He also highlighted that at the earlier Pre-project Performance Review Committee (PPRC) meeting, the benefitting institutions used the opportunity to access the achievements and challenges of the Centres.

He regretted that some Centres, like the University of Benin, were just about getting their money since October last year when it was ready, attributing the delay to the Central Bank of Nigeria (CBN) as the World Bank had already released the money.

He stressed that the World Bank SPESSE mission was very significant as it signaled a movement gradually towards the mid-term. He stated that the ultimate question remained that if some of the lost ground would receive World Bank’s consideration for grant for an extension?

Prof. Rasheed reminded all that NUC had concluded plans to conduct Resource Verification Exercise to the Six Universities in the SPESSE project, which would happen as soon as the Universities Lecturer’s strike is over.

He commended the Vice-Chancellors, Task Team Leaders (TTL), Centre Leaders and Chief Bayo Awosemusi for their tenacity and hard work so far, stating that the project midterm review was just around the corner. He, however, expressed optimism that the project teams would be able to review the progress, identify the common challenges, and allow for exchange of knowledge on how to fix these challenges to ensure the success of the SPESSE project in Nigeria.

The World Bank representative and Project TTL, Chief Awosemusi thanked the Vice-Chancellors for their support to the SPESSE project, pledging that the Bank would continue to support the Universities. He reiterated that for the University of Benin, funds would be released as the delay must have been from the CBN. He urged the Vice-Chancellors to share their experiences with each other and called on the Centre Leaders to put in extra effort as the project has a time limit.

He explained that additional finance could only come when the money that was given had been exhausted and when results for what it had been used for is seen.

While stressing that the World Bank appreciated the Centre Leaders’ Commitment to the project, the TTL also thanked the participating MDAs and the Universities. He stated that the focus and gains should be on the expected outcomes because the resources allocated were time-bound.

Giving an update on the work plan, NUC Coordinator, Special Projects, Dr. Joshua Atah said that the Commission was meant to provide technical assistance to the Centres and also support them to establish their Centres of Excellence.

He explained NUC’s activities under the Project Preparations Advance (PPA) which centred on the sensitization of the general public, needs assessment, demand assessment, facilitated center-selection, curriculum development, engagement of consultants, training and preparatory workshop, training of trainers (ToT), learning management system modules, learning management system devices, Wi-fi system, accounting software and connection to NgREN.

Dr. Atah mentioned the status of activities under the current project phase to include: implementation of the 2021 work plan and the spillover of some 2021 work plan and verification, as well as ensuring that students of SPESSE graduate within (4) years.

He enumerated the long-term plans to include; campaigning for change, sustainability drive at the centres of excellence and NUC, and e-contents, Verification courses modeled after a new course era.

He pointed out that the challenges that NUC faced right now were delay in the take-off of so many projects; disbursement, payment through the CBN, industrial action by the university-based unions and revised budget system in 2022, which had added the borrowed funds to MDA’s capital allocation.

The six Universities’ Center Leaders also gave an update on the progress, long-term plans, expected results, challenges, achievements and their expectations from the World Bank.

In a summary presentation, Centre Leader of Ahmadu Bello University (ABU), Zaria, Prof. Mohammed Bello Yunusa, said that the issue of accommodation had been resolved, with only structured left to be renovated. He informed the meeting that the building that had been dedicated for the project has a conference room, classrooms, postgraduate study rooms and offices.

He said that programmes had been approved for Bsc procurement, environmental standard and social standards in addition to M.Sc programmes by the institution’s Senate. He mentioned that the centre had fully enrolled online, short executive courses and advance courses which had been advertised, advocacy visit had been made and letters distributed to stakeholders for patronage and sensitization. Trainings and workshops were also organised for the Programme.

He said their challenges remained growing insecurity, power supply, and poor connectivity and funding and noted that the way forward would include reaching out to the public, rigorous advertisement, engaging curriculum expert and online training.

On behalf of the Federal University of Technology, Owerri, (FUTO), Prof. Gloria Chukwudebe highlighted that approval had been given by the Senate concerning the implementation plan on procurement, while executive short courses had started, several meetings held with relevant stakeholders, the curriculum already in place for the courses, while the Executive Track A courses had been launched Via advertisement, including postgraduates programmes.

She added that procurement as well as social standards workshops and trainings were done in February and March, training which remained an issue for potential clients, expansion of PPRC facilities, preparing for accreditation, strengthening the Liaison office, developing good incentives for staff, providing support for conference and training research for funds support.

She enumerated some of the challenges as some MDAs refusal to let their staff attend trainings, inability to use ICT infrastructure, power supply and inflation arising on procurement. On the institution’s expectations, she stated that they were preparing for resource verification and currently reviewing projects to make sure that all the projects succeed.

Other institutions whose Centre Leaders gave reports on their SPESSECE achievements, long-term plans, next steps, immediate plans, challenges and expectations from the World Bank were the University of Lagos (UNILAG); Federal University of Agriculture Makurdi (now Joseph Srwuan Tarka University, JOSTU), Abubakar Tafawa Balewa University (ATBU), Bauchi and University of Benin (UNIBEN).

In his presentation, Director General, Bureau on Public Procurement (BPP), Mamman Ahmadu, said that the bureau had been able to put in place the project implementation unit, procured some office equipment and training tools for the effective performance of the project in line with the institution’s expectations, she stated that they were preparing for resource verification and currently reviewing projects to make sure that all the projects succeed.

with the work and procurement plan.

Adding that the Bureau had also engaged some consultants for the development of the procurement qualification and certification policy which is now ready for the review by all stakeholders, established a communication link with the six centres of excellence, with particular reference to the conduct of Track A Executive Courses and the Certification Programme, while the Bureau would be visiting the six Centres for verifications on compliance with the Bureau standards.

According to the DG, the Bureau had identified some challenges which hinged on timely release of funds for the implementation of the project, need for synergy between the Bureau and the Centres of Excellence for the delivery of the Track-A Executive Courses and lack of incentives for the project implementation units. He stressed that the Bureau would ensure full implementation of the work plan under the project and would not shy away from raising stage implementation strategies and working with the Project Coordinator to develop contents. In addition, offices had been allocated for social standards projects, following strictly the World Bank procedures in equipment provision while procurement had been completed and sent to World Bank for refund.

He listed some of the challenges such as the need to install the items procured and the safety of the items, lateness on the project take-off, inadequate guidance from the bank, no procurement officer, low power supply and none approval of allowances to motivate workers.

According to Mr. Okwesa, some of the Ministry’s proposed activities include: installation of internet facilities, construction and inauguration of a technical working group and engagement of a consultancy firm.

The Federal Ministries of Environment and Finance also provided an update on their work plan, activities and challenges.

It would be recalled that the SPESSE was conceived based on the need to bridge the gap between insufficient supply of quality professionals in the procurement, environmental and social standard sectors and the lack of academic programmes and curriculum in these sectors in the Nigerian educational system.
A delegation from Ottawa University led by officials of the Nigeria High Commission in Canada, last Tuesday, conducted its maiden exploratory visit to the National Universities Commission (NUC) with the idea of establishing a win-win partnership with Nigerian universities, using the transnational education mode.

Receiving the Canadian delegation on behalf of the Executive Secretary of NUC, Professor Abubakar Adamu Rasheed Mni, MFR, FNAL, the Deputy Executive Secretary (DES), Mr. Christopher Maiyaki welcomed the delegation and informed them that NUC was established to set standard and ensure quality within the Nigerian University System. It was also NUC’s mandate to ensure access and equity in the development of University education in Nigeria.

He further stated that NUC started today Nigeria has a total of 218 Universities, adding that some states have more than one federal university, in addition to more than two state universities and several private universities. The most recent private universities added were 12 that just came on board.

According to him, the country was blessed with several specialized universities which include Universities of Agriculture, Technology, Education, Medical Universities and Health Sciences.

He explained that the Commission has the sole responsibility of overseeing university educational system in Nigeria and also embarked on resource verification before any programme could be accepted. It also engaged experts on curriculum review and had continued to update the curriculum.

He stated that the Commission, through its accreditation sub-committee undertakes the monitoring and supervision of universities in Nigeria, a strategy used to ensure a smooth running of academic programmes.

He mentioned other functions of the Commission to include formulation of policies and implementing them, making recommendation to government on the establishment of private Universities and also issuing licenses for the operations of private university.

The DES explained that the University system had been undergoing some challenges such as students inability to gain admission into higher institution due to inadequate numbers of universities as only between 500-600 thousand students gained admission out of about 2 million students that sat for the Joint Admission and Matriculation Board (JAMB) examination yearly, including shortages in the number of academic staff, staff training and gender empowerment.

He further explained that NUC has been working hard to make sure that its universities were truly international and become part of the global system. He said that in order to elevate the Nigeria education status, NUC had set up an advisory committee led by the former NUC Executive Secretary, Professor Peter Okebukola to assist in the repositioning of the Nigerian University System (NUS).

The DES expressed the hope that the purpose of the visit would be beneficial to both Nigeria and Canada.

The Director, Open Distance and E-learning (DODeL), Engr. Kayode Odedina gave a summary of some models of transnational Education as recognized by NUC.

He said to drive the process of mainstreaming Trans-National Education (TNE) and in line with the global Community, NUC had in 2011 established the Department of Open and necessary to expand the scope of TNE provision by adding more models to the initial three comprising Twinning/Articulation, Branch Campus and the Open and Distance Learning model.

Engr. Odedina explained that the purpose for adding more models was to further liberalising the provision of TNE. He went further to list the various models of TNE proposed for the Nigerian space to include: twinning/Articulation, branch

He further explained that NUC has been working hard to make sure that its universities were truly international and become part of the global system. He said that in order to elevate the Nigeria education status, NUC had set up an advisory committee led by the former NUC Executive Secretary, Professor Peter Okebukola to assist in the repositioning of the Nigerian University System (NUS).

The DES expressed the hope that the purpose of the visit would be Distance Education now christened the (‘Directorate of Open Distance and e-learning’) with a Division called (Cross-Border Education, and now Tran-National Education) division, which is charged with the responsibility of handling Transnational Education issues.

This, he said, was informed by the need to put the necessary quality assurance framework guidelines in place. He stated that in line with the global trends, the Commission found it necessary to expand the scope of TNE provision by adding more models to the initial three comprising Twinning/Articulation, Branch Campus and the Open and Distance Learning model, Joint/parallel degrees, independent Institutions, acquisition/merger and teaching institutions.

While elaborating on the models, Engr. Odedina said the twinning/articulation model involved a foreign University (recognized and accredited by competent authorities in its home Country) and an approved Nigerian University collaborating to offer courses, enrich curricula content, pedagogy, and offer degrees with...
Joint or dual Certification or have articulation arrangements, study on host and home Campuses.

He said that this model might be acceptable by the Nigerian government provided that under the articulation arrangement, upon successful completion of an approved course of study, students are awarded degrees of the Nigerian University.

He noted that the branch campus model was one in which a foreign University establish its campus anywhere in Nigeria, following the NUC standing procedures for establishment of branch campus. He said programmes offered in the Nigerian Campus must be a replica of those offered in the parent institution in the home country and should meet the standards and quality assurance requirements currently applicable to Nigerian Universities.

He stressed that the Open Universities were however, expected to comply with the ODL model approved for the Nigerian University System (NUS) which was the ICT-enabled support blended learning (IESBL) model, noting that it is the acceptable and practicable model in Nigeria for now.

Engr. Odedina said that the joint/parallel degrees model was an arrangement whereby providers in different countries collaborate to offer a programme for which students receive qualifications from the providers, or a joint award from the collaborating partners, provider and it was therefore, independent.

He said that NUC would need to work together with the foreign providers on the design, delivery and quality assurance of the academic programmes. He noted that the procedure for establishment of Private Universities also applied and gave a brief summary of the other models of TNE.

In his speech, Head Partnership Development Africa, Ottawa University, Canada, Mr. Mustinrimana Serge said, they saw Africa as a strategic partner most especially Nigeria as one of the countries in the West African region which they could strengthen their partnership with since they had been to the five regions of Africa namely; East, North, West, Central and Southern Africa. He said, the Ottawa University believed that partnership with Universities in Nigeria should be a win win partnership and they intend to build strong relationship with

Universities in Africa.

He explained further that the Ottawa University was founded in 1848 as bilingual public research University in Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, that the main Campus was located on 425 hectares (105 acres) land in the heart of Ottawa’s Downtown core.

He further disclosed that the school was co-educational with both English and French speaking students and enrolled over 35,000 undergraduates and over 6,000 post graduates students. He stated that the school had approximately 7,000 international students from 150 countries, accounting for 17 percent of the student population and with a network of more than 195,000 alumni.

Mr. Serge informed the NUC that the Institution has 550 programmes for undergraduates, Master and PHD, it is the 11th greenest Campus in the World with ten(10) faculties which are; Arts, Management, Social Sciences, Education, Engineering, Medicine, Science, Health Science, Law and Common Law.

He said that it was Canada’s most sustainable Campus, where research was extremely important and the University has been ranked 8th in terms of total research funding in Canada and that gives the Institution the more reason to go into partnership with other universities. He stated that in the area of publication, the University is ranked 6th in study.

Other areas of partnership included co-supervision of doctorate thesis, exchange of faculty members for teaching, visiting student research, development of joint research project and exchange of publications and academic materials.

He particularly made mention of the partnership they had with the Egyptian government, and the project is called Digital Egypt Builders Initiatives (DEBI) although it took them six month to reach an agreement but it was a three-year agreement which focused on Artificial intelligence, Cyber security and Robotics and Data science. He said it was done in such a way that Egyptian students would be in Egypt while receiving lecturers in Canada.

Concuring to Engr. Odedina’s summary of the seven models, Mr. Serge said that all the seven models were relevant but, they required different levels of engagement, and believed that the twinning/articulation model was easy to implement while the teaching institution model was an option to explore.

In a vote of thanks, the Director, Establishment of Private Universities (DEPU), Mrs. Constance Goddy-Nnadi thanked the Canadian delegation for coming to NUC on the issues of partnership and collaboration, describing it as a two way thing. Maple Canada College, Ebi Obaro, and Tandu Musa Ahmed, Head of Chancery Nigerian High Commission.

Present at the meeting from the NUC group were NUC Directors of Academic Planning (DAP), Dr. Noel Abiodun Saliu; Students (Dos), Mr. Sunday Essien, Human Resources (DHR), Mr. Boniface Odum, and Accreditation (DA) was represented by Ogechukwu Okafor.

Others were Acting Directors of Directorate of Research, Innovation and Information Technology, (DRIIT), Mr. Lawan Faruk; Inspection and Monitoring (DIM), Mrs. Lydia Imoroa; Skills Development and Entrepreneurship (DSDE), Abdulrasheed Na’ Allah; Bayero University Kano, Prof. Sagir Adamu Abbas; University of Ilorin, Prof. Abdulkareem Sulyman and Deputy Vice Chancellor (Academics) University of Nigeria, Nsukka, Prof. Johnson Uranma, among other University Scholars.

She also thanked the Vice chancellors for their presence and thanked the Deputy Executive Secretary and everybody who made the meeting a success.

In the Canadian delegation were International Recruitment Manager, Collins Enwemasor; International Market Development Manager, Thierno Ba; President Mr. Ashafa Ladan; Public Affairs (DPA), Mal. Haruna Lawal Ajo. In attendance were the Deputy Director Internal Audit, Kenny Ogwu and Head of special Duties in Executive Secretary’s office Ms. Ulonna Iyama.

Also at the meeting were the Vice Chancellors of the University of Port-Harcourt, Prof. Owunari Georgewill; Veritas University, Prof. Hyacinth Ichoku; University of Abuja, Prof.
Usmanu Danfodiyo University (UDUS) Wins N233 Million NCC Research Grant

The Nigerian Communications Commission (NCC) being consistent with its recognition of the academia as a central stakeholder in its commitment to linkages and local development sphere of the Nigeria’s telecommunications sector, NCC has awarded fresh research grants and endowed professorial chairs in some Nigerian universities in the sum of N233 million.

From the total sum, N172.5 million was awarded to support 13 proposals found to have met the stipulated criteria in the advertised 2021 Request for Proposal (RfP) for Telecommunications-Based Research Innovations from Nigerian Tertiary Institutions (research grant) Programme. Additionally, three universities received the sum of N20 million each for endowments of Professorial Chair by the Commission.

Speaking at the award ceremony, which took place at the Commission’s Head Office in Maitama, Abuja, on Thursday, April 7, 2022, the Executive Vice Chairman of the Commission, Prof. Umar Garba Danbatta, said the event demonstrated NCC’s strong resolve in advancing the impact of digital technologies on the national economy, using indigenous products and solutions.

While presenting award letters to the Lead Researchers of the beneficiaries of the 13 research grants, Prof. Danbatta said, under the Telecommunications-Based Research Innovations, tertiary institutions submit detailed and well thought-out research proposal, on specific thematic areas provided by the Commission. The proposals are expected to result in the development of commercially-viable prototypes as concrete harvests.

According to Prof. Danbatta, in 2021 RfP, the Commission received a total of 55 research proposal that focused on five emerging technology areas, namely: Fifth Generation (5G) deployment; Innovative Clean Energy; Advanced Method of Quality of Service (QoS)/Quality of Experience Management and Test Mechanism; Internet of Things (IoT); Low Power Wide Area Network (LPWAN) Technology; and Monitoring and Localising of Drones.

“After thorough evaluations, 13 proposals were found to have met the stipulated criteria. Indeed, this is a clear testimony to the objectivity and painstaking approach to the evaluation process aimed at ensuring that the best quality is achieved and only researches that could produce prototypes with the potential of providing solutions to both local and global challenges were selected,” Prof. Danbatta said, as he congratulates the 13 successful research awardees.

The EVC also presented dummy cheques of N20 million each to the Vice Chancellors of three Nigerian universities, namely: University of Port Harcourt, Rivers State; Usman Danfodiyo University, Sokoto; and Federal University of Technology, Minna, Niger State, who are the beneficiaries of the NCC’s Professorial Chair Endowments.

“The Commission has endowed Professorial Chairs in tertiary institutions across the country, as a mechanism in entrenching innovations in our tertiary institutions.
institutions, as well as having graduates that are “industry-ready”. The endowment of professorial chairs in universities is one of Commission's initiatives in supporting the academia to focus on research in Information and Communication Technology (ICT) in order to enhance the advancements of emerging technologies,” Prof. Danbatta stated, to underscore the purpose for instituting professorial chairs in tertiary institutions.

The fresh endowment in the three universities brings to seven, the number of universities that the Commission has endowed professorial chairs. Earlier, the NCC had instituted professorial chairs in Federal University of Technology, Owerri, Imo State; Bayero University, Kano, Kano State; Abubakar Tafawa Balewa University, Bauchi State; and University of Ibadan, Oyo State.

Meanwhile, the EVC stated that while the implementation of the endowment is through a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) signed between the Commission and each benefitting university just as the Commission recently included the signing of MoU as part of the implementation of the Telecommunications-Based Research Innovations.

The EVC stated that with the latest awards and endowments, the Commission has committed more than N660 million to Nigerian tertiary institutions for ICT-focused research innovations. This is in demonstration of commitment to driving the attainment of the goals of the Federal Government's agenda on digital economy, as captured in the National Digital Economy Policy and Strategy (NDEPS), 2020-2030.

Earlier in his remarks, NCC's Head of Research and Development (HRD), Mr. Kelechi Nwankwo, thanked the EVC for his vision to continually deepen collaboration between the Commission and the Academia. Mr. Nwankwo expressed optimism that the Management of the Commission would continue to allocate the requisite resources to research, development and innovations that are necessary for the industry to continue to contribute to the socio-economic development of the country.

The HRD said the initiatives which are policy-driven were instituted as a proof of the Commission's appreciation of the importance of working with stakeholders to engender innovations and build indigenous technological capabilities that would strengthen the ICT ecosystem, not only in the provision of services but also in the development of the communications manufacturing and supply sector within the Nigerian economy. He said collaborations such as the one with the academia are in line with the NCC's Strategic Management Plan (SMP), 2020-2024, because strategic partnering has been identified as a critical pillar for the attainment of NCC's corporate objectives.
Mr. Nwankwo encouraged the beneficiaries of the research grants and the universities that benefited from the endowment of professorial chairs, to put the financial resources into proper use that will produce research outputs that address societal problems and contribute to further growth of the telecoms sector.

Expressing appreciation on behalf of the beneficiaries, the Vice Chancellor, Usman Danfodio University, Prof. Lawal Bilbis, assured the Commission that the funds will be put to judicious use.
