

40% Deduction from Varsities' IGR Suspended. - FG

The Minister of Education, Professor Tahir Mamman, has disclosed that the planned deduction of 40% from the Internally Generated Revenue (IGR) of federal varsities earlier implemented by the Federal Government has been suspended.

The Minister who was representing the Visitor of the University, President Bola Ahmed Tinubu, made the disclosure at the 75th Anniversary and 2023 Convocation Ceremonies of the University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Oyo State, which held at the International Conference Centre of the State Capital.

He said the Ministry of Finance has been directed to ensure that the policy should not come into effect because even though the law was enacted in 2020 and the circular was issued in 2021, it was not a good time for such a policy to be implemented.

The President reiterated the commitment of his administration to the education sector in line with the 2030 education agenda of the government and African Union goal 2063, adding that the Federal Government would focus on bringing in more innovation to reform the entire education sector for curriculum universities in the past, reiterating that the government was determined to ensure that the institutions do not face such challenges anymore.

He noted that the introduction of students' loans was to ensure that no student drops out of school due to poverty and expressed optimism that the motive for the policy will yield the positive results expected.

The Chancellor of the university and Emir of Sokoto, Alhaji Sa'ad Abubakar, in his speech, congratulated the institution on its notable achievements in the last 75 years.

He said the celebration also called for reflections on the impact of the university on the communities, noting that knowledge from the university must benefit the communities and Nigeria through quality research.

He lamented that public service has degenerated compared to what obtained 50 years ago, stressing that universities must rise up to salvage it through quality graduates.

Earlier in his address, the Vice Chancellor of the university, Prof. Kayode Adebowale, charged the graduands not to rest on their oars in ensuring they give back to the society whenever the opportunity presented itself.

He also implored them to be great ambassadors of their institution both in character and academics within the country and outside its shores.

According to him, a total of 6,865 graduands received first degrees in various disciplines across 17 faculties; 2,842 received Academic Masters Degree, 131 Postgraduate Diplomas and 25 Master of Philosophy. Also, a total of 722 graduands from various disciplines were awarded Doctor of Philosophy degrees while Prof. Mayowa Owolabi was awarded Doctor of Science, a higher doctorate degree.

The convocation was attended by many dignitaries, stakeholders of the university, graduands and their parents / guardians, staff and students of the institution, invited guests and well as well wishers.

IMSU VC Seeks Stakeholders' Support to Digitise Laboratories

The Vice-Chancellor, Imo State University (IMSU), Owerri, Professor Uchefuna Chukwumaeze (SAN), has announced plans to digitise the institution's laboratories in line with the demands of the digital age, appealing to stakeholders to come to their aid.

Professor Chukwumaeze, who made the appeal while receiving 20 laptops donated to the university by a non-governmental organisation, Zenith Environmental and Social Protection Network (ZESPRONET), led by its National President, Bidwell Okere;

The body, comprising old students of the old Imo State University, Okigwe, now Abia State University, Uturu (ABSU), had supported the institution in building hostels, environmental beautification and prize awards to encourage and reward excellence, among others.

The old student extended their corporate social responsibility to IMSU as an offshoot of ABSU.

He said: "This is purely on humanitarian ground. Education is a social service to humanity.

The donors could have selected other institutions but they chose IMSU. This is the highest laptop donation we have ever received so far."

The Vice-Chancellor extended the university's appreciation to the extended alumni of IMSU and encouraged the graduates to be good ambassadors of the university as well as stakeholders to support the institution to deliver on its mandate, towards making Imo state proud.

UNILAG Student Wins Start-Up Pitch Competition

A 300-level student of the Department of Finance, University of Lagos (UNILAG), Barnabas Peter, has clinched the top spot at the start-up pitch competition of the project Innovation 2 Marketing (I2M) accelerated incubator programme.

Mr. Peter won the price at an event organised by the Innovation Technology Management Office (ITMO) of the institution. The event showcased the entrepreneurial brilliance of young minds selected from across the country.

Peter's innovative venture, Travaye, a digital platform designed to assist tourists, low-income earners, and individuals seeking exciting places and locations to visit, emerged overall winner. His success was the result of a rigorous six-week incubation programme, where he honed his business acumen and entrepreneurial skills.

Jennifer Adighije.

Addressing the first set of cohorts, Adighije identified the critical role of innovation as a key driver of economic growth and competitiveness. She observed that despite Nigeria's struggling economy, the start-up ecosystem had remained a hub for innovation, a source of hope, and an assurance of a better future for the nation.

She charged the cohorts to seek opportunities with international investors.

According to her, "over a billion-dollar investment flowed into the Nigerian market from viable start-ups in 2022, which made up 28.4 per cent of Africa's total funded ventures, with Nigeria receiving 29.3 per cent of the continent's total investments.

"As part of the vision to ensure three million talents are empowered, let me say that Nigeria's hope for economic growth and employment opportunities can only be driven by the growing youthful population as we look ahead.”

In her remarks, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Folasade Ogunsola, who was represented by the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Management Services), Professor Lucian Chukwu, described the talents on display as immeasurable and highlighted how immeasurable the I2M project was to the institution.

She said Peter’s victory not only marked a personal achievement, but also stood as a testament to the academic excellence and innovative spirit fostered within the institution.

She reiterated the university’s leadership commitment to the creation of an enabling environment that encouraged entrepreneurship and innovation through initiatives like the I2M accelerated incubator programme.

Director of ITMO, Dr. Abiodun Gbenga-Ilori, said the competition was a culmination of weeks of hard work and dedication by the participants, who had undergone intensive training and mentorship.

She disclosed that 20 of the participants would receive N850,000 each, while another N500,000 would be awarded by the SSA to participants with outstanding start-up ideas, as part of plans by the university and its partners to nurture and support aspiring entrepreneurs, as well as equip them with necessary skills and resources to succeed from ideation to commercialisation.

Similarly, Research and Innovation Systems for Africa (RISA) Country Head, Mrs. Alice Omisore, expressed satisfaction with the outcome of the six-week programme, noting that the exercise had met her organisation’s expectations.

Students' Loan Implementation Commences January 2024 - FG

The Federal Government of Nigeria has announced a new date for the implementation of the Access to Higher Education Act, otherwise known as the Students Loan Law, recently assented to by President Bola Ahmed Tinubu, GCFR.

Speaking at the 29th National Economic Summit recently, President Tinubu said the loan programme “must commence” in January 2024, adding that there would be no more industrial actions in the tertiary institutions.

President Tinubu said “the loan programme must commence in January 2024, there would be no more industrial actions in the tertiary institutions. By January 2024, the new Students Loan Programme must commence”.

“By January 2024, the new Students Loan Programme must commence. To the future of our children and students, we are saying no more strikes,” Mr. President stated.

While speaking further on the country's economy at the summit, President Tinubu mulled the creation of an economy with adequate

Protect Patients' Interest, VC Tells New Pharmacy Graduates

The Vice-Chancellor of the University of Uyo Akwa Ibom State, Professor Nyaudoh Ndaeyo, has charged inductees of the Faculty of Pharmacy of the institution to make the interest and well-being of their patients a priority.

He also charged them to stay up to date with the latest discoveries and apply them in the practice of their profession.

The VC gave the advice on Tuesday in Uyo, the state capital, while speaking at the 22nd Oath Taking and Induction ceremony of the 2020/2021 pharmacy graduates of the institution.

Prof Ndaeyo was represented by the Vice Chancellor Academic Prof Anthony Udo.

“As you take this solemn oath, I would like to remind you of the immense responsibility that you have undertaken. You are ushered into a profession that demands the highest level of ethics, dedication, and professionalism. As a Pharmacist, you are entrusted with the lives of your patients, and your actions have the power to heal or harm.

“Therefore, I urge you not to only take This Oath seriously, but also to be committed to upholding its principles throughout your Pharmaceutical career. Always act in the best interest of your patients and prioritise their well-being above everything else.”

“Remember that you are not just treating a disease, but also caring for persons who may be in their most vulnerable state.”

In his remarks, the Registrar, Pharmacy Council of Nigeria, Ibrahim Ahmed, who was represented by Dr. Anthony Idoko, charged the inductees to get themselves acquainted with the code of professional ethics.

Professor Nyaudoh Ndaeyo
Vice-Chancellor, UNIUYO

“As Pharmacists, you are expected to get yourselves acquainted with the Code of Professional Ethics which prescribes your professional and moral responsibilities to the patients, pharmacist colleagues, health professionals, your employers and the general public.

“Strict compliance to the code of ethics is indispensable for the practice of the pharmacy profession.

“The Council frowns at professional misconduct in its entirety. So, any form of misconduct by any Pharmacist is usually investigated by the PCN Investigating Panel and if the Pharmacists have a case to answer, he or she is referred to the Disciplinary Tribunal,” he said.

The registrar took the opportunity on behalf of the council to welcome the new inductees and wish them a fruitful engagements.
