

Global Summit: Acting ES Harps on NUS Internationalisation Agenda

The Acting Executive Secretary, National Universities Commission (NUC), Mr. Chris J. Maiykai, was among speakers at the global innovative partnership programme held recently in China.

He spoke on the theme “Innovative Partnerships Driving Educational Change and leadership: Lessons and Perspectives from Nigeria”, with emphasis on the efforts of the NUC on the internationalisation of the Nigerian University System (NUS).

Mr Maiyaki, whose paper highlighted the cardinal goals of the NUC, informed his audience that these included: Attainment of a stable and crisis-free system university system; Working with Nigerian Universities to achieve full accreditation status for at least 80% of academic programmes as well as Fostering partnership between the NUS, international development partners, and the private sector, among others.

Drawing inference on the Dialectical Relationship among Universities, he explained that the dynamics at play within the global higher education sector global partnerships and collaborations with one another within their respective countries and internationally.

was dialectical in nature.

He said, on the one hand, individual universities function as independent actors, compete vigorously against one another to achieve enhanced global visibility and ranking. The universities were also seeking

He stressed that this dialectical relationship was evident in the relationship between universities in the global north and those in the global south.

He further argued that perceived benefits of international partnerships among universities included expansion of institutional reputation and brand, enhanced global visibility, improved revenue, more socially/globally impactful scholarship, and access to scholarly opportunities that might not be otherwise available.

Harping on the taxonomy of global university partnerships, the Acting Executive Secretary noted that these could be fostered through one-on-one Collaborations and Exchanges between Faculty Members, Programme or Centre Collaborations and Inter-institution Simultaneous Matriculation, Joint or Dual Degree Programmes, Global Satellite or Branch Campuses, Co-branded Institutions and or Non-University Higher Education Institutions Affiliating with Universities.

On the Benefits of University Partnerships, he stated, that they bring about increased revenues, expansion in institutional brand and reputation, globalised learning and impact, as well as Access to Scholarly Opportunities.

Giving insight on the benefits derived from access to scholarly opportunities, Mr. Maiyaki noted that many of such funding opportunities existed that could be accessed through global partnerships among universities and scholars from different countries across the world, citing the Erasmus+ programme as example.

He enumerated some of the challenges of Global Partnerships to include: Risk Aversion and Its Impact on Innovation, Lower than Expected Enrollment and Revenue, Perceived Erosion, Lack of Control Over Quality and threats to Autonomy and Academic Freedom.

He recounted that the NUS and NUCs Internationalisation Agenda had been fraught with some difficulties in the past with not much been achieved in respect of joint/dual degree programmes, and the establishment of global satellite/branch campuses in Nigeria or of Nigerian universities abroad.

He emphasised that the only known attempt by a Nigerian university to establish a global satellite campus was by the University of Lagos, during the tenure of Professor Jelili Adebisi Omotola as Vice Chancellor (1995-2000), which however could not thrive for some procedural reasons.

He, However, disclosed to the global audience that the NUC was now poised, through its internationalization agenda, to support Nigerian universities to establish sustainable and highly rewarding partnerships with universities and other key stakeholders in the national and international higher education sectors.

He pointed out that the Commission now boast of a unit in its Directorate of Students saddled with the task of internationalising the NUS.

He acknowledged the various postulations by different schools of thought on the process of internationalising higher education.

The Acting Executive Secretary, however, highlighted that some of the Core Objectives of the NUC's Internationalisation Agenda which it sought to achieve through strategic partnerships included the Facilitation of Transnational Education (TNE)ODL/e-Learning; Curriculum Development /Reforms and Encouraging and supporting collaborative research projects designed to address local or global challenges, among others.

He said in a further attempt to realise the internationalisation of the NUS, the Commission had always encouraged and supported Nigerian universities to establish sustainable partnerships that would aid their service delivery and enhancement of their academic quality, global visibility, and ranking.

He added that areas of partnership that universities should explore in the bid to internationalise were broadly categorised into two namely, Internationalisation at Home (Inward Internationalisation) and Internationalisation Abroad (Outward Internationalisation).

The Acting Executive Secretary outlined some of the benefits of Internationalisation through Partnerships to include: Growth of scholarship in diverse disciplines through vibrant academic exchanges; and building social and economic capacities in developing countries and the Establishment of powerful international networks and associations to mobilize aptitude and ability in favour of transfer of knowledge, advanced policies, and global research for enhancing investment and measuring impact, among others.

Despite these benefits, he identified some of the peculiar challenges besetting Nigeria in the pursuit of Global Partnerships as unstable academic calendar largely precipitated by frequent industrial actions by university staff unions, National economic challenges and poor remunerations, Social insecurity, Political instability, Inadequate research infrastructure and Low or no-ranking/poor global visibility of many Nigerian universities.

Speaking on the Way Forward, Mr. Maiyaki stated that NUC was committed to the promotion of Joint, or dual degree programmes with international partner universities, Partnerships with universities and other players in the global higher education industry and Transnational/ borderless education.

He highlighted other steps the NUC had put in place to spearhead the promotion of internationalization through partnerships to include: the provision of a template that would ensure that the terms of agreements and MoUs signed with partner foreign institutions were mutually beneficial and not lopsided in favour of international partner institutions as well as Upgrade of facilities, internationalisation of curriculums and promotion of an environment that would encourage more international students and staff to engage in study, teaching and research in Nigeria.

Others included: Encouraging and overseeing strategic alliances and partnerships with universities and other higher education institutions in West Africa, Africa, and other parts of the world.; Consistent interface with relevant parastatals, agencies, and stakeholders in the higher education sector, nationally, regionally, and internationally, to help universities in Nigeria to build new and reinforce existing research networks in Africa.

He further posited that on the platform of such networks within Africa, African scholars could collaborate to write grants and compete for funding in the international education arena with one of the targets being to seek funding for the establishment of centres of excellence in African universities.

He cited examples of existing research networks in Africa like the Africa Research Universities Alliance (ARUA), African Humanities Programme (AHP), Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa (CODESRIA), Regional Universities Forum for Capacity Building in Agriculture (RUFORUM) and Partnership for African Social and Governance Research (PASGR).

He used the forum to assure all stakeholders in the NUS of the commitment of the NUC to the promotion of internationalisation in ways that would enhance the functionality, service delivery, globally competitiveness, visibility and ranking of Nigerian universities among the peers.

President Tinubu Canvases Support for Varsities

President Bola Ahmed Tinubu, GCFR, has called on stakeholders to join hands with the government in assisting universities in the country, with a view to making the Nigerian ivory towers compete favourably with their counterparts worldwide.

The President noted that the education sector should not be left in the hands of the government alone, saying all stakeholders must develop the sector. He made the call on recently, during his presidential address delivered at the 32nd Convocation of the Federal University of Technology, Akure, Ondo State.

Represented by a Visiting Professor of the National Universities Commission (NUC), Professor King-David Yawe, the President said due to the capital-intensive nature of the university education, there was a need for joint efforts by the stakeholders, particularly in the area of research funding.

He said, “We are all aware that university education is capital-intensive. For adequate funding, therefore, all stakeholders have a role to play.”

The Visitor stated that, it was suffice to say that the government alone could not do the funding.

“I, therefore, call on the organised private sector operators and international partners to collaborate with our universities and research institutes in the areas of research funding and utilisation of research outputs for national integration and development.”

This, he added, would also rub on our graduates in the areas of needed development, by ensuring an atmosphere of peace and tranquillity on the campuses.

He declared that “On our part, we will ensure that motivational activities are put in place to ensure value addition, experience, hands-on training, exposure and less expenditure on employees’ engagement and training.

He noted that if this kind of learning environment was achieved, the Nigeria University System (NUS) would have students who would be well-focused, and eschew all forms of violence and other anti-social behaviours.

The President enjoined all the organised labour unions in the universities to cooperate with the government to deliver the improved productivity.

Reciprocal actions would be expected from our universities as the government works hard to raise the bar of conducive teaching and learning environment. To whom much is given, much is expected. He stressed.

Mr. President explained that dialogue, patience, and positive engagements were better means of achieving results than strike actions, stressing that industrial disharmony would do nothing but disrupt life, waste time and elongate the academic calendar.

Therefore, he said all avenues for dialogue must be explored and exhausted before strike actions would be considered, and as the last resort.

While congratulating the graduating students, President Tinubu reiterated that the Students

Loan Bill signed into law would enable indigent students in all tertiary institutions to have access to interest-free loans which they would pay back at their convenience in future, when they were gainfully employed.

“Under my watch and as I have said in my manifesto, no student will drop out of school as a result of inability to pay school charges,” he declared.

In her remarks, the Vice Chancellor of FUTA, Professor Adenike Oladiji, urged the graduating students to be good ambassadors of the University and to always project the image of FUTA wherever they found themselves.

Nigeria, UAE Explore Educational Opportunities - HME

The Honorable Minister of Education (HME), Professor Tahir Mamman, OON, SAN, has said that Nigeria and the United Arab Emirates were committed to exploring educational opportunities available in the two countries especially in the fields of research, scholarship, exchange of programs and transfer of knowledge, among others.

The Honorable Minister said, Nigeria was interested in studying the development model of the United Arab Emirates which, according to him, had made Dubai a global Shopping centre, adding that Nigeria stood to benefit from that model given the enormous potentials and resources the country commanded.

He pointed out that he admired the way and manner the United Arab Emirates had overcome the challenges of climate change and adverse weather conditions to become one of the global destinations of choice, adding that the need for the two countries to work together couldnot be overemphasized.

Professor Tahir maintained that the world was one indivisible entity, emphasizing that international collaboration was aptly needed, more than ever before, to make the world a better place for all. He used the occasion to appeal to his Excellency to help resolve the impasse surrounding the Bilateral Air Services Agreement (BASA) and flight operations between the two countries.

Earlier in his address to the Honorable Minister, His Excellency Ambassador Saleem Sa'eed Alshamsi, appealed to the Minister to help conclude the processes and signing of the Bilateral Education Agreement (BEA) between Nigeria and the United Arab Emirates.

He also requested the Minister to visit the Emirates, adding that his country's Minister of Higher Education was keen to meet the Nigerian Minister of Education, in order to advance the educational interest of the two countries.

Reflecting on 41 years of diplomatic relations between Nigeria and the United Arab Emirates, Ambassador Alshamsi applauded the Nigerian people as very hardworking and one of the greatest talents in Africa.

Ondo Varsity offers Employment to Best Graduating Students

The management of the University of Medical Sciences (UNIMED), Ondo State has revisited the good tradition of the academia through the retention of best graduating students. The university offered automatic employment to three of its best-graduating students for the 2022/2023 academic session.

The students were Miss Francisca Aemulegun, who got First Class in Physiology, Miss Marcy Saba, who was the best female graduating student and Micheal Aremu who was the best male graduating student.

The Vice Chancellor of the institution, Professor Adesegun Fatusi, who disclosed at the university's 5th convocation ceremony, said the institution was committed to supporting the beneficiaries to pursue further education.

Professor Fatusi said a total of 19 out of 528 graduands bagged First Class degree, 217 got Second Class Upper, 94 got Second Class lower and 15 bagged Third Class honours.

He said the institution would not relent in its effort to push for the advancement of African Herbal Medicine. He added that the institution believed it was time to put an end to the inexcusable neglect of the huge and untapped potential of Africa's God-given heritage.

The Vice Chancellor noted that African medicine held the key to unlocking the door for Nigeria and Africa to make great contributions to drug development and health advancement on the global stage.

He said: "the government needs to help to ensure that UNIMED continues to be a TETFUND beneficiary institution. So far, TETFUND has been the main source of funding.

The fund would help to settle UNIMED's infrastructural deficits. "As a specialised University, UNIMED has the highest need for developmental projects and resources.” He declared.

In his address, the Ondo State Governor, Chief Lucky Aiyedatiwa, said the sum of N1bn had been earmarked for the construction of a Senate building at the main campus of the institution. He said he was committed to taking the developmental agenda of the state to the next level.

Delivering the convocation lecture, Chief Executive Officer, of Background Check International, Kola Olugbodi, advised the graduands to seek opportunities in the untapped potentials for innovation within the country.

He urged the young graduands to view economic difficulties as a canvas for creativity as well as finding novel solutions to enhance healthcare delivery.

He said: “there are lots of good things happening in Nigeria. Any time you see a society where things are not working, that is a society with lots of opportunities.

There are opportunities here. Let’s stay here. We have entered into the age of entrepreneurship. Begin to think entrepreneurship.”

Rwandan Varsity Appoints Nigerian Deputy Vice Chancellor

The Governing Body of the University of Kigali, Rwanda has appointed Ogechi Adeola, a Professor of Marketing, as the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (DVC) of the Institution.

The announcement was made in a statement issued by the institution’s management on its official website, last week Thursday. Adeola’s appointment took effect from January 11, 2024.

Prior to her appointment, Adeola was an Associate Dean of Business Administration at the University of the People, California, USA.

The statement noted that before transitioning to academia, she spent over a decade in various roles within Nigeria’s financial sector, starting her career at Citibank Nigeria.

The statement reads in part, “The Governing Body of the University of Kigali (UoK) has appointed Professor Ogechi Adeola, a Professor of Marketing, as the Deputy Vice-Chancellor – Academic (DVCA), effective January 11, 2024.

“Professor Ogechi Adeola holds a Doctorate in Business Administration and a Master of Business Administration from Alliance Manchester Business School, United Kingdom.

She earned a Bachelor of Law degree from the University of Nigeria, Nsuka and obtained a Barrister at Law certificate from the Nigerian Law School, after which she was called to the Nigerian bar.

“Professor Adeola is the immediate past Head of the Department of Operations, Marketing, and Information Systems at the Lagos Business School (LBS), Pan-Atlantic University, Nigeria, and the Academic Director of LBS Sales Academy.

“She previously held the position of Associate Dean of Business Administration at the University of the People, California, USA, where she currently serves as a Business Administration Advisory Board member.

“She is an Independent Non-Executive Director at Cornerstone Insurance Plc, Nigeria, and she served as a member of the Board of Directors at the University of Kigali until her appointment as Deputy Vice Chancellor-Academic.

She possesses over 28 years of relevant work experience in industry and academia. Before transitioning to academia, she had spent over a decade in various roles within Nigeria’s financial sector, starting her career at Citibank Nigeria.

“Professor Adeola’s pursuit of professional excellence is evident in her completion of executive education programmes at globally renowned institutions, including Harvard Business School, The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, Stanford University’s Graduate School of Business, London Business School, and Cranfield School of Management.”

According to the statement, in 2022, Adeola served as the National Consultant for an International Labour Organisation project promoting women’s economic empowerment in Nigeria.

Additionally, she is the founder of the Digital Business Tutelage for Women Empowerment in Africa Initiative (DBTWEAi), a non-profit platform designed to enable young African women to unlock their potential.

“Her contributions to women’s empowerment were recognised with the prestigious Female Achievers Recognition Award in March 2022, co-hosted by American Corner in Lagos and in June 2023, she was honored with The Peak Performing Woman of the Year 2023 Award in the Super Achievers category for Executive Education by The Peak Performer.

“Professor Adeola is a Fellow of both the Institute of Strategic Management, Nigeria and the National Institute of Marketing of Nigeria,” the statement added.

NATIONAL UNIVERSITIES COMMISSION, ABUJA

RE: ABOUT 100 FAKE PROFESSORS JUST UNCOVERED IN NIGERIAN UNIVERSITIES – NUC A REBUTTAL

The attention of the National Universities Commission (NUC) has been drawn to news items, circulating on the social media, some national dailies and television stations, to the effect that the Commission has just “discovered over 100 fake Professors in Nigerian Universities”. The NUC wishes to deny these media reports categorically and unequivocally. They are fake, untrue and a figment of the imagination of the author(s), all happening at an unsuitable time, when the nation is awaiting the outcome of the investigation into the fake certificate saga from universities in some neighbouring countries. The Commission therefore finds this development as unfair to all stakeholders.

Specifically, the fake news items have been circulating in two forms – (i) as a link to a 2019 online news item; and (ii) as a separate list of names of the alleged fake Professors in various Nigerian Universities, which was not the case. We consider these unfounded publications as ill-conceived and a ploy by unscrupulous persons to create in plausible a tone, disquiet, panic and provoking outcries at both the national and international levels.

For the avoidance of doubt, the Commission can confirm that it initiated in 2019 a laudable project, with the intent of compiling and publishing a list of full Professors in the Nigerian Universities System (NUS) through the use of an online portal to collate the requisite data. During the exercise, the NUC found anomalies, such as Associate Professors being listed as full Professors. It is essential to also state clearly that the Commission as a responsible Federal Government Agency, does not engage in half-baked exercises capable of tarnishing the image of Nigeria and the NUS. That was why the Commission deemed it necessary to share the collated data with the Nigerian Universities for the purpose of authentication by the competent authorities as to who qualifies to be a full professor. Based on the verified data, the Commission then in a landmark accomplishment, first published the list of full Professors who participated in the exercise in 2019. It was understood that this would be succeeded by a continuous process of updating the list of full Professors. It is important to state at this point that all the issues pertaining to the 2019 verification of full Professors in Nigerian Universities were concluded in 2019. Since then, the Commission has entrenched a more reliable system of generating the list of full Professors in the NUS. The Commission is also conscious of the fact that some of the academics not captured in the 2019 exercise may now have matured and progressed to become full Professors; this being the reason why it continuously updates the list of full Professors in the NUS.

The National Universities Commission questions the rationale behind recycling this stale 2019 news of an activity it initiated, conducted and laid to rest in the same year. The purpose and objective of resurrecting in 2024 (more than 4 years later) this-no-longer-fresh news, is clearly intended to generate unnecessary controversy at an unsuitable time, whilst lacing it with a false list of fake Professors.

The National Universities Commission owes it a solemn duty to protect and guard the integrity of the many hardworking and committed academics in the NUS, who have earned national and international respect and recognition. Therefore, the Commission has been saddled with the vital and strategic responsibility by its enabling laws, to uphold the sanctity of quality in all aspects of our University Education delivery.

The Commission wishes to use this medium to advise Government officials at all levels, members of the NUS, the international community, and the public, to please disregard these items of fake and stale news which have long been laid to rest in 2019. All information concerning the role of the NUC in the regulation of the NUS can be found on our official website www.nuc.edu.ng. Further enquiries can also be made via the Commission's official email address: info@nuc.edu.ng

Please be assured of our highest considerations, at all times and best wishes for a much more fulfilling and prosperous 2024.

Signed.

Press Release

SUSPENSION OF EVALUATION AND ACCREDITATION OF DEGREE CERTIFICATES FROM THE BENIN AND TOGO REPUBLICS.

The attention of the Federal Ministry of Education has been drawn to the commendable work of investigative journalism that led to the publication by the Daily Nigerian Newspaper dated 30th December 2023 titled "UNDERCOVER: How DAILY NIGERIAN reporter bagged Cotonou varsity degree in 6 weeks, participated in NYSC scheme". This was also carried in various social media.

2. This report lends credence to suspicions that some Nigerians deploy nefarious means and unconscionable methods to get a Degree with the end objective of getting graduate job opportunities for which they are not qualified.
3. The Federal Ministry of Education vehemently decries such acts and with effect from 2nd January 2024 is suspending evaluation and accreditation of degree certificates from Benin and Togo Republics pending the outcome of an investigation that would involve the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Nigeria and the two countries, the ministries responsible for Education in the two countries as well the Department of State Security Services (DSSS), and the National Youths Service Corps (NYSC). The Ministry therefore wish to call on the General Public to support its efforts, show understanding and provide useful information that will assist the Committee in finding lasting solutions in order to prevent further occurrence.
4. The Ministry has also commenced internal administrative processes to determine the culpability or otherwise of her staff for which applicable Public Service Rules would be applied.

5. The issue of degree mills institutions, i.e institutions that exist on paper or operate in clandestine manner outside the control of regulators is a global problem that all countries grapple with. FME has been contending with the problem including illegal institutions located abroad or at home preying on unsuspecting, innocent Nigerians and some desperate Nigerians who deliberately patronize such outlets. Periodically, warnings have been issued by the Ministry and NUC against the resort to such institutions and in some instances, reports made to security agencies to clamp down on the perpetrators. The ministry will continue to review its strategy to plug any loopholes, processes and procedures and deal decisively with any conniving officials.

6. The Ministry had always adopted the global standard for evaluation and accreditation of certificates of all forms which relies on receipt of the list of accredited courses and schools in all countries of the World.

7. The Ministry wishes to assure Nigerians and the general public that, it is already putting in place mechanisms to sanitise the education sector, including dissuading the quest for degree certificates (locally or from foreign countries) through a re-invigorated focus on inclusivity: reliance on all skill sets as directed by President Bola Ahmed Tinubu GCFR.

8. The Federal Ministry of Education is committed to collaborating with stakeholders, including civil society organizations, to consistently enhance the Nigerian education system and we value the public's understanding and patience as we strive to address these issues.

9. The Federal Ministry of Education wishes all Nigerians a happy new year. A year in which we would all work together to strengthen our education sector.
